What is the SINR?

The Saugatuck Institute of Neuropsychological Rehabilitation (SINR) grew out of a commitment to advance the practice of neuropsychological rehabilitation. Neuropsychologists Drs. Lance Trexler and Jill Winegardner recognized the critical need for intensive hands-on clinical teaching in the formulation, application, and integration of interventions for both cognitive and emotional consequences of acquired brain injury. They created SINR and invited leading national and international experts to join the faculty for the inaugural Institute. This Institute is relevant for neuropsychologists, speech and language therapists, and occupational therapists in clinical practice.

The attendance for the 3.5-day SINR Institute is limited to only 60 attendees. Each day is structured to provide a collegial, experiential, and interactive experience that promotes clinical reasoning and problem-solving. The schedule also includes case studies, breakout team discussions on treatment formulation and delivery as well as panel discussions. We have also included a Grand Rounds with group discussion of cases presented by participants.

Included in your registration is our Welcoming Dinner the evening of June 20, a scenic dinner cruise to Lake Michigan, lunch each day and a special Farewell Lunch.

We strongly recommend that you book your lodging early as Saugatuck is a vacation destination where lodging is booked many months in advance.

We have a block of rooms at the Americinn in Douglas set aside until September 30, 2022, with rates starting at $139+tax. We have a very reasonable rate, with no cancellation fee if done before May 20, 2023. To take advantage, call the Americinn directly at 1-269-857-8581 and say you are a part of the SINR Room Block. Of course, there are many B&Bs, retro motels, and VRBO possibilities. To check out other lodging go to:
